

Who doesn't love comfort food? From baked pastas to anything with lots of bread and cheese, there's one cuisine we associate with comfort the most: Italian. Especially on cold winter nights when you have a family to feed but simply don't feel like cooking, finding a good local Italian restaurant is a must.

Most people may not associate Doylestown with top-of-the-line Italian cuisine, and we just wonder: why not? Pennsylvania may be Dutch Country, but there have been plenty of Italian families gracing our grounds for centuries, too! For your next family outing, be sure to check out one of our favorite picks for Italian food near Doylestown, which we list below!

Altomonte's Italian Market & Deli

We're still heavily in the middle of football season, and thank goodness for that! The next time you and your family are enjoying an Eagles game from the comfort of home, be sure to pick up some sandwiches from Altomonte's Italian Market & Deli beforehand. These hoagies have been some of Philly's favorites for over 40 years, and after you try them out yourself, you're sure to see why they were voted Best of Philly in 2008.

Domani Star

Located right in the heart of historic downtown, Domani Star is some of the best Italian food near Doylestown. What the restaurant lacks in space, they completely make up for in service and flavor. Family-owned and -operated, you're sure to feel like "one of the family" the next time you pop in for dinner.

Genevieve's Kitchen

"Pure. Simple. Good." Genevieve's motto says it all. Feeding your family wholesome, healthy meals is tough enough to do at home, not to mention while going out to eat! By not overloading on ingredients, Genevieve and team are able to make the freshest ingredients to make their Italian and Mediterranean dishes really shine. Stop by for lunch or dinner, and feel free to bring a bottle; it's a BYOB establishment, making it a fun treat for date night!

Ristorante Il Melograno

If you're looking to experience authentic, delicious Italian food near Doylestown, check out Ristorante Il Melograno. The chef and his wife hail originally from Italy, so you know you're eating the real thing when you sit down for a meal. The couple has provided the Doylestown community with delicious Italian lunches and dinners since opening their doors in 2000. Be sure to tell them we said to stop by!

Shopping and eating local always seems like a thing we remember to do in the fall, amid national retailers' Black Friday sales and whatnot. We at Fred Beans Ford of Doylestown want to encourage you to shop small and support the wonderful community of Doylestown all year long. By visiting one of these great, local Italian restaurants, you'll be helping to continue building and strengthening the community we've all come to love so much. We can't wait to see you around town!
